RAINS PROVE BIG BENEFIT TO ALL CROPS AT TORREON

Cotton, Corn, Beans and Chili Flourish. Cattle Also Reported in Good Condition in Mountains.

Torreón, Mex., June 25.—The rainy season has set in here. During the past few days showers have been frequent in this immediate vicinity and the crops, especially cotton and corn, are in excellent condition. Heavy rains have been falling in the mountains between Torreón and Zacatecas, west of the line of the Mexican National Railways. This embraces a large section of farming country where corn, beans and chile are raised in immense quantities. A much larger acreage of land has been planted this year than usual owing to the favorable prospects for rain. In the mountainous sections of this portion of Mexico, cattle, sheep and goats are raised. These animals are in good condition now, owing to the abundance of water and excellent grazing.

A horse attached to a light buggy made a mad gallop on North Oregon street Saturday morning. The animal narrowly missed running over several people, while crossing San Antonio street, then suddenly came to a stop at South Oregon and Overland.
